Dear Friends:

If you will pardon my employing one effort to hasten some information that you should all be interested in having, here goes:

More than 40,000 tickets have been sold for Sunday's game although it is now forty-eight hours off ---- not so bad, eh?

The next games will be August 5, and following that will come your games, September 9.

Even rain can't hurt us now insofar as Sunday's games are concerned because we are going to play those games rain or shine, however the weather looks swell. We had heavy rains last Saturday, Sunday and Monday, and both of my June games were played in rain, so it is logical to suppose that the law of averages will give me a good day this Sunday, and I hope on the succeeding days when games are scheduled.

Bye now!

Yours in haste,

John R. Williams
